OUR TRADE WITH CHINA.

there is no necessary connection between trade with the Celestial Empire. Chinese trade and Chinese immigration. The market for Chinese tea and silk, which are the principal exports of the Celestial Empire, is not dependent upon the admission of Chinese coolies to America. The Chinese merchants proceed upon mercantile principles. They are as little subject to sentimental influences as any people in the world. They will sell their products to the best advantage, and they do not care who the purchasers are, so long as their solvency is assured. The Herald gives what purport to be the imports and exports to and from China last year. It says: "During the past year our total "imports from China and Hongkong amounted to $26,000,000, of which more than $10,000,000 was entered at San ' Francisco. Our exports reached $8,000,-"000, of which $6,000,000, or more than 'three-fourths, went from San Francisco." These figures are not correct. There is no reason for including Hongkong, a British colony, in the showing at all, but if it is included it will be as well to give the correct statistics. Including Hongkong the imports last year amounted to $25,000,000, and the exports to nearly $12,000,000. The imports and exports from China, how-Lieutenant Danenhower telegraphs that his eyes ever, were respectively no more than $22, 358,908, and $5,400,000. ## HONORABLE EXILE.

A dispatch yesterday stated that General Skobeleff has been appointed a Commissioner for the reorganization of Turkistan, and that the appointment is regarded as an honorable exile. That interpretation of it is not acceptable. It is not credible that General Skobeleff has said anything, from first to last, which he was not care. fully instructed to say, and it is not therefore credible that the Czar has any intention of punishing him. It is however quite an old Russian trick to send the agent of imperial chicanery into a pretense of disgrace. It will be remembered that precisely the same thing was done with General Kaufmann, when he had extended the Russian boundaries in Turkistan, in the very teeth of Prince Gortschakoff's declaration to the English Foreign Office. In this instance, however, the direction in which Skobeleff is sent makes it possible that he may be destined to begin some real mischief in Central Asia. The reorganization of Turkistan is a conveniently vague undertaking, and if it should involve the annexation of Merv there would be no cause for surprise. General Skobeleff is certainly the last man to oury himself in Central Asia without letting his proceedings be heard of, and since he belongs to that powerful class in the army which is always clamoring for foreign war, to send him into Turkistan is something like throwing a red-hot poker into the close vicinity of a powder magazine. If he goes there we have no doubt that he will be heard of before long in a sensa-THE NIHILISTS AT WORK AGAIN.

It was announced, some time ago, that n understanding had been arrived at between the Emperor of Russia and the Nihilists. It was said that the latter formally undertook to abandon all further attempts upon the Emperor's life, and that he in his turn was to treat the Nihilists already in custody, with mildness. That there really was some foundation for this story seemed to be shown by the fact that the Emperor immediately afterwards quitted Gatschina, and went to live at St. Petersburg in an undefended palace, besides driving through the streets without an escort, and in many ways evincing a strong feeling of relief and reassurance, to terminate this state of truce, and that the Emperor, and declaring that his death this occurrence has disturbed the Emperor's household, and no doubt it will compel a return to the former incessant precautions. But the more violent the Nihilists Czar will be driven to rush into a foreign such a step would be almost certain to

ROMANTIC STORY - DIGGING FOR

The Stockton Independent of Thursday has a local romance. A policeman Sunday idnight from a blacksmith's shop on Main street. The thief escaped. At 3 A. M. a physician, who was out late and was driving lown Hunter street, noticed a man climb over the fence into the vacant lot formerly belonging to the Chicard estate, near the Eureka Engine house. Officers Hinton and Callin were informed, and they suddenly their man, who was up to his knees in a hole in which he was at work. He was taken to the jail and gave his name as Lavelle. He is about fifty-five years of age. He is disinclined to talk, but mutters frequently to himself, "Lost, after all these years," etc. No investigations were made as to what the man was doing until Sun-day morning at 8 o'clock, when the officers, accompanied by David Landers, Henry Jason and Phil Staples, took turns shoveling, all of them remembering and speaking of the legend for many years onnected with the place, that immense treasures were buried there. After reach ing a depth of five feet and a few inches, a rotten board was struck, four feet long and eleven inches wide. Lifting the board, numerous packages, from one and two pounds to ten and fifteen pounds in weight, were found. They had not been placed in a box, but simply piled into the bottom of the excavation and merely covered with the board. The officers and other gentlemen are very reticent about the find, not even mentioning the number of packages. It is known, however, that an express team made four trips from the lot to the Mer-chant's Bank of Stockton, where the bundles were stored a few hours after they were discovered. All the packages were wound around with rope which had been ublished at Modesto, contained the fol-

owing interesting item, which may have reference to the circumstances related above. All connected with the strange affair have nothing of importance to communicate, and in the meantime Lavalle, while great deal of consideration. The News article says: A strange and most singular letter was opened not long since at this place. The letter contained the last will and testament of a political prisoner, per-haps a traitor to one of the most despotic Governments in the world. Both letter and will were written in French, though not in nor of that country. They were written by a priest at the request of the prisoner. The will and letter contain a brief biography of an unhappy man. In it he states that he had visited California and at or near the city of Stockton buried a vast fortune of 2,000,000 francs, besides masy valuable jewels. He returned to his native country, sought to overthrow the Government, failed, and was made a close prisoner. He has one daughter whose name it is not policy to give, now in Europe. He and will were written in French, though it is not policy to give, now in Europe. He makes an old Californian, a native of Virginia, well-known in Tuolumne, San Joa-

[Salt Lake (Utah), Daily Tribune.] Positive statements from reputable and worthy gentlemen need no support such as is lent by the language of a third party. It is, therefore, a pleasure for the writer to sup-ply the public with the following substance of interviews held with three highly respected citizens of Salt Lake, with the suggestion that those into whose hands this paper falls should read and ponder well:

Mr. F. A. Pascoe, Superintendent and part owner of the Pioneer Perpetual Lime Kiln, meeting the reporter on the street, dropped into conversation on the subject of the merits of the Great German Remedy, St. Jacobs Oi', Mr. Pascoe said that his attention had been called to the oil by the advertisements in the papers, and by the occasional mention of it by some acquaintance. Last week he was attacked with rheumatism, and a friend ad-vised him to get a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil. The attack was excessively severe. He never had endured such sharp pain in his life. He would almost rather have been crushed in a quartz mill. As a matter of course the exceeding great pain confined him to his room. On Saturday last he got a bottle of the Great German Remedy and commenced applying it. It very soon gave him relief—decided relief -and by the time he had consumed one bot-tle of the wonderful specific he was entirely He characterized the action of the oil as won-derfully rapid and thorough, and said be could

He regarded it as a very remarkable The next gentleman with whom the reporter talked about the St. Jacobs Oil was Mr. Harry World, clerk in Dwyer's bookstore, No. 76 Main street. Mr. World said he had inflammatory rheumatism last week. He was confined to his chair and suffering greatly. He was totally incapacitated for the full discharge of his duties at the store. Some one recommended the St. Jacobs Oil. He purchased a bottle and rubbed it upon his person. It gave him great relief, and he was soon able to attend to his work in the store as usual. He did not use anything else, and attributes his restoration entirely to the won-derful efficacy of the St. Jacobs Oil. At the time the writer conversed with him Mr. World was rid of all pain, and was active as any man can be who is in the very best physical condition. He was still feeling a little of the soreness which naturally results from continued pain. But the disease was gone, and one or two more applications of the remedy would cause the soreness to dis-

The reporter next visited Mr. John D. Spencer, clerk in the large clothing house of Goldsmith & Co., No. 88 Main street. Mr. Spencer acknowledged that he had been using Spencer acknowledged that he had been using the great German remedy and that he deemed it just the best thing he ever saw for pain. Mr. Spencer continued by saying he had received pretty bad bruises by an accident and went to a neighboring drug store for some arnica. The druggist told him that the great German Remedy had a better reputation than any known remedy for healing bruises, sprains, etc., and suggested that he try it. Mr. Spencer thereupon bought a bottle of the cil and etc., and suggested that he try it. Mr. Spen-cer thereupon bought a bottle of the eil and took it home with him and rubbed it on his bruises. It took away the pain almost im-mediately, and it was not long before even the outward indications of the hurt disap-peared, so marvelously searching and healing were the applications of the wonder-working oil. Mr. Spencer added that he shall hence-forth believe in St. Jacobs Oil as the most powerful specific in the world, and shall al-ways keep a bottle of it convenient. He commends it to the public as a valuable rem-

For a long time it has been our aim to present thoroughly good work at prices no higher than is usually charged for inferior sorts. We believe an inspection of our stock will show that we have succeeded well; that the materials used are carefully selected; that none but skilled labor is employed in their make up, and that the designs are equal to the best taste of the day in such things. We consider those who make their Underwear at home as our competitors. There are only two things we can do to cope with them successfully: First, to have our work equal to theirs in merit; and second, to make the prices so low that nothing will really be saved in home work. We believe we have accomplished both ends.
