The story of one woman's commitment to humanity through her art. This film documents the American journey of 19th century Shakespearean actress Helena Modjeska. Born in Kraków, Poland, Modjeska debuted in San Francisco on Aug. 20, 1877 at the California Theater on Bush Street. Modjeska was a muse for world-class artists, inspiring composer Ignacy Paderewski, American author Willa Cather, poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, and Shakespearean actors Edwin Booth and Maurice Barrymore as well as Nobel Prize winning author Henryk Sienkiewicz.
