1889

Frank Kosmalski, a property-owner residing at 4 McClea court, between Eighth and Ninth, Harrison and Byrant streets, corroborated the testimony of Mrs. Wohlken as to the asphyxiating character of the smoke from the crematory smoke-stack. He said also that real estate had depreciated in value very much by reason of the nuisance of burning garbage in the neighborhood. This nuisance was more apparent when the wind was southeast than when the wind blew from the opposite quarter. He told about a snow-storm of ashes and bits of charred paper about the size of 50-cent pieces, which appeared to be bits of the San Francisco Examiner. This storm lasted two days and a half last week and was accompanied by an odor compared to which Limburger cheese was a bouquet of violets.
